LIFELINE SYSTEM FOR WAREHOUSE ROOF

AFF4000 IMPAXX TRAPEZOIDAL ROOF LIFELINE SYSTEM

PROJECT CASE STUDY

Client : Heineken Taiwan Brewery

Project name : Horizontal Lifeline System for Warehouse Roof

Products used : AFF4000 IMPAXX Lifeline System on Trapezoidal Roof

Background

Heineken Taiwan Brewery is located in Neipu, Pingtung. This is Heineken's only brewery in Taiwan, and it officially started production in 2024. In addition to producing locally made "Made in Taiwan" Heineken beer, the brewery is also an important production base for Heineken in Northeast Asia.

Requirement

Heineken is not only a well-known and professional brewery, but also committed to continuously improving its occupational health and safety performance, adhering to safety regulations, and prioritizing worker safety.

To ensure worker safety and provide a safe working environment, Heineken Taiwan Brewery invited KStrong Taiwan to discuss ways to enhance fall protection for workers performing maintenance, inspections, or other rooftop works. The aim is to prevent falls from the rooftops of warehouses.

KStrong Solution

KStrong Taiwan recommended the AFF4000 IMPAXX series horizontal lifeline system to Heineken Taiwan Brewery as a permanent fall protection solution for its warehouse roof. The AFF4000 IMPAXX horizontal lifeline system is suitable for workers who need to move frequently on the Trapezoidal roof. Its system features are specifically designed for workers requiring continuous movement. This lifeline system also meets the fall protection requirements of Heineken Taiwan brewery for working at rooftop, and let workers to move safely and smoothly along the work area covered by the lifeline system.

The AFF4000 IMPAXX Series is fully compliant with EN 795:2012 Type C and TS 16415:2013 standards and is engineered to support up to four users simultaneously, making it an ideal choice for working at rooftop environments. Additionally, KStrong was chosen because of its competitive advantages in terms of product design, quality, value, and local support.
